

It's nothing like your normal road trip.

Travel Deals

ESCAPE

Log In

Join

Destinations Top Lists Experiences Advice News Family Holidays Video Win

Search by destination or experience

AUSTRALIA ▶ QUEENSLAND

Why comedian Jenny Wynter is hooked on chooks

Jenny Wynter May 13,2021

📸 Ben's Chook Races at the Tambo Hotel in Queensland are an experience you can't miss. Picture: Supplied

I never knew how much my life had been missing ‘bet on a macaron-coloured chook race’ until I did it. It was so good that I coined a new term: the retrospective bucket-list.

better about achieving things and (b) account for the magical wonders you never even would have dared dream about.

Of course, when lockdown hit in 2020, ALL bucket-lists seemed to be off. And as a comedian, that seemed to include the innocent “bucket-list item” of “having a career”. After months of rocking in the foetal position singing “Nobody Knows the Troubles I’ve Seen”, to my shock and delight I received a phone call in mid-August to the effect of: “Queensland restrictions lifting... want to get shows on the road... can you leave in three weeks?”

 Jenny Wynter and her husband Jon Wilson explore the Lara Wetlands. Picture: Supplied

After homeschooling my kids in lockdown for months, my legs made like the Roadrunner in Looney Tunes and pinged me the heck out the door.

So there we were. Me, my husband (tour manager and tech extraordinaire) and two hilarious co-stars, Jasmine Fairbairn and Carolyn Mandersloot, hitting the road for a 3200km whirlwind tour with The Funny Mummies Comedy Gala. Picture Hunter S Thompson if he were (a) three women, (b) relatively sober and (c) compelled to occasionally feel guilty about his dependants back home.

By night, we performed show after show in regional Queensland in towns like Goondiwindi, Blackall, St George, Cunnamulla, Quilpie, Stonehenge, Barcaldine, Tambo, Charleville and Roma.

 The iconic welcome sign at Blackall, Queensland. Picture: Jack Harlem

By day, we were avoiding hitting cattle and kangaroos (or as they call it in the country, “driving”). And I can’t even tell you how marvellously superior you feel when you can simply memorise travel directions: “Drive straight for 476km, then the destination is on your left.”

We made friends quickly with artesian water bathing, learning the poetic life lesson that it is only when you surrender to the water that smells like farts that your hair can achieve true softness.

We discovered the wonder that is fossicking. I’d only encountered the word once, in a year nine English comprehension test. I figured it meant something like “frolicking”, but perhaps involved stones. I wasn’t that wrong.

 There are all kinds of treasures in outback Queensland. Picture: Supplied

My preferred “fossicking”, however, was in the regional op shops. Stepping into them is like stepping into a magical time long gone when second-hand buying meant “Living la vida loca!” or, as they put it, “Fill a bag for a dollar!”

Then, of course, there was the bucket-list multi-coloured chook race.

My destiny was sealed the moment I spied the sign: “Ben’s Chook Races at the Tambo Hotel”.

Eight different choooks were ready to compete for glory, all of them lovingly dyed with different food colouring and poultry conditioner. With half the prize pot going to the winner, and the other half going to the Royal Flying Doctor Service, my two loves of philanthropy and seizing the day combined to take control of my body, compelling me to bid successfully on not one, but two premium racing choooks: gloriously green Franken-hen, and perfectly (im)proper Pink Bits.

 Ben's Chicken Racing is a must-see while you're in town. Picture: Supplied

"What are you doing?" whispered my husband.

"Carpe diem!" I replied. He is convinced it sounded a lot like "Leave me be!" but I maintain he had artesian water in his ears.

The race began and so did the most hilarious seven and a half minutes of my life.

The sight of eight brightly coloured chickens chasing a chicken-feed-filled remote-control ute was fantastic in itself. But add to that the slapstick sight of said ute continually crashing into the fence, only to be pounced upon and fixed up by an adept 11-year-old boy named Toby... are you imagining this playing out with the Benny Hill soundtrack? You should. Because that's exactly what was playing over the speakers.

Tambo is also famous for its teddy bears, which are handmade from local wool. Picture: Jack Harlem

Then, as if this meringue-fest couldn't get sweeter, our green monstrosity of goodness Franken-hen came in for the win.

I screeched, I squealed, I received the spoils in cash: $178!

Between my jumps of excitement, my husband pointed out that I'd bid so high on both hens that my heart-lifting euphoria was actually over a grand profit of $12.

At that moment I opted for the path that wise married folks have walked since the dawn of time: I simply chose not to hear him.

I squealed, I leaped and I hugged my fellow comedians, thrilled at the disbelief that such magical and unexpected life moments could exist, even in a year like 2020. I genuinely welled up.

And after two weeks of soaking up Queensland's stunning regional sights and artesian waters, I'm pretty sure that my tears, too, smelled like farts.

See also:

- Weirdest animal races to see in Australia
- 10 amazing animal encounters
- Melbourne's strangest animal attractions
- How to avoid cruel animal tourism

Explore more

Road trips

Family

Top lists

Australia

Cairns

JOIN

LOG IN

It's nothing like your normal road trip.

Enter now

Advertisement

K I N G

the King sofa

sale

on now

Shop now >

ⓘ X

Advertisement

Where Next?

>

ADVENTURE

CITY

SNOW

CARAVAN AND CAMPING

We Recommend

SPONSORED

'I found Australia's best road trip'

If you seek different, this is the holiday for you

Northern Territory

Get Government Rebate and Install Solar Panels - For Almost Nothing!

Live Smart Save Money

Where to head away this autumn

Visit Victoria

SPONSORED

Interesting facts and fiction to know about when it comes to UTIs

Aspen Pharmacare

Win an epic holiday in the NT

Tourism NT

Bowels: A Simple Trick To Empty Them Completely

Gut Solution

SPONSORED

The hot ticket comfort item: ugg boots

Man Decides to File for Divorce After Taking a Closer Look at This Photo!

JustPerfect USA

Always Place A Rubber Band On Door Knob When Alone, Here's Why

HealthyGem

Scientists: Brain Scan Uncovers The Real Root Cause Of Tinnitus (Ear Ringing)

SynapseXT

SPONSORED

The best dining deals this May

These Twins Were Named "Most Beautiful In The World," Wait Until You See Them Today

Give It Love

If You Can Pass This Knowledge Quiz, Your IQ Is 142

bonvoyaged.com

FedEx Express

FedEx Express

Advertisement

Trending now

We hired a motorhome, no one told us this

Star sign travel: Where to travel based on your zodiac sign

Drew Binsky: The world's worst (and most expensive) Macca's

Australian culture: Things only Aussies do and say

ESCAPE

Be the first to know about the latest travel news, holiday tips, sales and competitions.

Subscribe

About

About Us
The Team
Privacy Policy
Relevant Ad Opt-Out
Cookie Policy
Terms and Conditions

Membership

Membership
Newsletters
Membership Terms

Contact

Advertise With Us
Travel Questions
FAQS

SUNDAY TELEGRAPH

SUNDAY HERALD SUN

SUNDAY MAIL (BRISBANE)

SUNDAY MAIL (ADELAIDE)

SUNDAY TASMANIAN

